

Melissa has an SUV!

Melissa and I returned to a cold and dry Honduras. The streets were filled with dust and holes. The plants, trees, and flowers all were covered with dust. But the people were receptive and warm. Thank you to everyone that contributed to Melissa's SUV. She now has a Mitsubishi Montero Sport. It is such a great thing to be able to do two things at once.

Progress in La Esperanza

We started our time home by receiving Helen Redmond and Esther McMasters and having a Ladies conference that touched the lady pastors and pastor's wives of La Esperanza.

We then received Pastor Karen Hartung and her son Brandon Hartung. They brought $2,000 to buy lab supplies for the Hospital in La Esperanza. Here we are presenting the director of the lab with a symbolic check and the supplies.

Progress in Gracias

Karen has a heart for the ladies in the Alberge (expecting mother's dorm) in Gracias. We replanted the garden there and met with several people about using land in Gracias for an extended garden and part of the Victory Farms Program.

Brandon is the videographer that made our videos last year, and has blessed us with another visit to continue producing vision casting videos for us on his trip. Karen also spoke several places and gave moving messages in churches and home small groups.

Victory Farms is more than a place to grow produce. It will house a bible school, regeneration center and produce seed that we give away to expecting mothers and a teaching center for subsistence farmers.

The Bible school was launched this month in La Esperanza and Gracias in partnership with Xplorenations a four year university program from Heritage University in Florida. The participants will receive a Diploma from Heritage when they complete 360 hours of teaching. This program combines Live and video teaching with community project application. We currently have 40 students. When the Victory Farms building is in place we will move the teaching to the ministry center.

Heaven's Reach Ministries relies on donations from people like you. Donations as small as $5 a month will help us give seed to the hungry.
