They run out of water

They run out of water for the school. When I started working in Chagola, not far from the house, they shared with me that the students had to open the large cistern and dip water out to flush the toilet.

They said that they run out of water throughout the year. They can only catch so much water from the roof of the school. I taught the students that God wanted to hear from them and have a personal relationship with them. I told them how precious they were to Him and that He wanted to be a part of their lives.

I told them that if they asked God to help them He would touch hearts and send someone to come and help. Last week was the time God sent them the answer to their prayers.

The answer to their prayers

A team (3 willing men) came and put in a water pump that now allows the children to flush the toilet without having to open the 2 foot lid on the 1000 liter tank in the ground. The team tripled the water supply for the school and added a toilet for the teachers.

The team showed Gods love and were the answer to the students and teachers prayers.

Only obeying God

The students and teachers were so excited about all that went on, that the staff, children and parents gave a program of gratitude to the team. They prayed over the team and thanked God for sending them.

I told them we were only obeying God and if they obeyed Him they would be used by God to make others feel the same love they feel.

Now the community knows that God truly does love them, cherish them, and answers their prayers.

The team allowed God to use them for a week and because of that obedience it opened the door for God to change the community for a life time.
